

The impact of electronic media in our life

introduction

various electronic media

their uses and help

adverse effect

how to make correct use

conclusion

Science has made our life easier and happier its latest advancement is in the field of electronic media

there are numerous electronic media like mobile cellular phone TV internet etc. these have revolutionized our world they have enable easier and cheaper and quicker access to common people .

they help us to be in contact with the rest of the world news can be spread throughout the globe in few minutes social media has increased our friend circle .

there are also misuse of these electronic media miscreants spread fake news rumours etc among people . innocent people can come in contact with fraud for Anti Social elements these all happen through fake id they can miss guide us or hack our account so we should be careful while using electronic media .

To keep ourselves safe and Secure try to disclose minimum identity do not make contact with any unknown person don't spend unnecessary time

As every resource has good and bad points so is electronic media we have to decide how we can make best and correct use of electronic media to make our life better.

---

Situation when I was embarrassed

everyone has been embarrassed at one time or another it is that moment when you wish the earth would open up and swallow you the anxiety and discomfort felt during that time which may only last a few seconds feels like time has stood still

I remember so well when I had my most embarrassing moment I was in sixth form it was during the English class when teacher happened to exhaust her refill and asked us for an extra pen as usual many of us ventured into the bag and rushed towards her as fast as we can luckily I was the first , I thanked my luck as if I was the first to open a vault . when I extended the so-called pen both of us looked at each other with suspicion , at first I could not understand why next moment this was cleared when she open it to write oh shit ! it was an eyeliner pencil. I don't know how it travelled from mother's vanity box to my school bag.

I was so much embarrassed that I felt if I could Locked Up myself somewhere the situation also gave a chance to laugh at me for next few days since then I never rushed to give pen to any teacher .

---

Value of a true friend

"a person attached to another by feelings of affection or personal regard." It's a very basic definition for something that is such a big part of our lives. "friend" is anyone we interact with on a regular basis, but a friend is so much more than that. A true friend isn't just someone you grab coffee with before class or go out with on the weekends. True friendship extends far beyond simply spending time together.

A true friend is someone who is there for you and wants you to succeed. Things that mean a lot to you become meaningful to them because you mean a lot to them. They want to watch you grow and flourish and chase your dreams, and they support and encourage you every step of the way. A true friend is honest. They are there to build you up when your self-esteem is low, but they're also there to bring you back down to earth when you get too carried away. A true friend won't judge you. They already love you .

A true friend is willing to fight for your friendship. Disagreements happen and friendships are bound to hit rough patches, but that doesn't have to mean all is lost; a true friend will be willing to work it out. A true friend will see your value. They won't try to break you down, discourage you, or undermine your success because they know how much you're worth and they want to see you be happy. A true friend is independent. You love to spend time with each other, but you're able to exist as individuals and pursue your own interests too -- you don't have to be attached at the hip all the time. A true friend respects you. They won't talk down to you or treat you as an inferior. They won't pressure you to do anything you're not okay with, they won't ask you to do anything that isn't in your best interest and they would never put you in harm's way. They want you to be happy, healthy, and safe.